Deliver better hybrid projects

For public services

Public Services must deliver a wide range of increasingly complex projects at pace and on budget. Projects teams are often distributed across locations, and work across organisations.

Hybrid working can save project teams time, money and hassle. But teams often struggle to organise and communicate well when collaborating on projects from different locations.

We believe that with the right practices, tools and strategies, teams can deliver impactful projects wherever they are.

Who is the training suitable for?

Do you recognize yourself or your hybrid teams in two or more of these points? Then our Better Hybrid Projects training is for you:

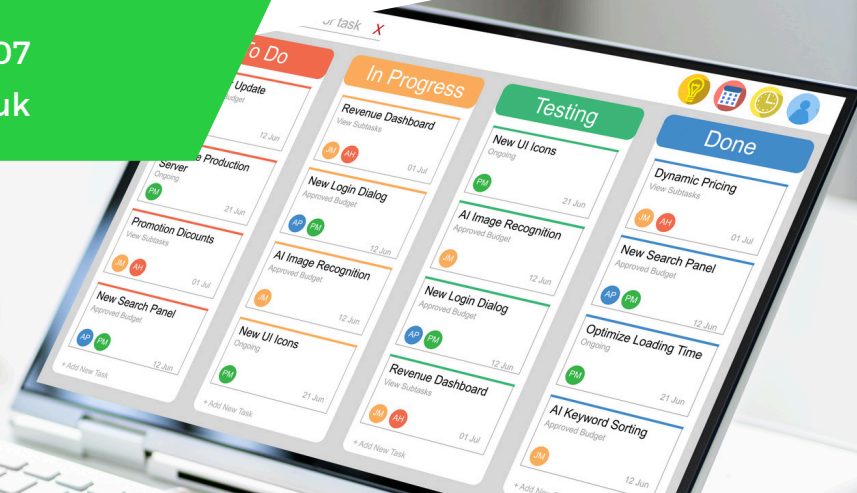

- Your team struggles to maintain engagement and productivity
- Your team doesn't communicate and collaborate as well as "in the room"
- Your team can't make decisions as effectively
- Your team is experiencing burnout or isolation
- Your team doesn't have the confidence to use online platforms effectively

Our training approach

Tailored to hybrid public services teams

You'll learn effective online project practices designed specifically for public service teams.

The course is held over four weeks, with four online sessions. In between these sessions, there will be time to test and learn different approaches to online working.

- Module 1: Setting up and getting going
- Module 2: Routines and rituals
- Module 3: Practices and Workflow
- Module 4: Well-being, Resilience, and 'Teamliness'

Our Better Hybrid Projects training is about as far from 'talk-over slides' as you could imagine. We believe that for learning to be applied in practice, there needs to be opportunities for participants to test out the approaches they learn.

Participants will immediately apply their learning through personal and team test and learn or prototyping opportunities.

There will also be check-ins and mentoring sessions as participants action their test and learn projects.

There will be time to reflect through various retrospective opportunities in the programme.

Our training is recommended by the Institute for Online Collaboration for its interactive approach. It's designed by frontline consultants with extensive experience in helping public services teams deliver projects on- and offline.

Who is this training for?

Anyone who is working in a hybrid project team in public services.

You might be:

- A leader in the public who wants to support their employees in thriving in a hybrid world
- A project manager who wants to increase engagement and effectiveness of their team
- A member of public sector project teams who wants to improve online work habits
- Interested in learning how to run projects when the team aren't working in the same place

Whether you want to join as an individual delegate or bring your whole team, we will find a solution that works for you.

What our clients say

The team got clear on the shared problem, brainstormed and developed new plans- while all of us worked remotely. We did not imagine this was possible online, but they did it.

Mehdi Du Puy- Head of Marketing, Young Impact

I have come away with some simple but effective ideas to counter the frustrations we have all experienced with online meetings.

Steve Dixon, States of Guernsey

We're proud of what we do

The skills you need to turn messy problems into meaningful opportunities.

Basis Training was established to meet our clients needs for high-quality, impactful public sector training at an affordable price point.

In 2010, driven by acute austerity, our clients told us, “we need to diversify our staff’s skills to save money.” We realised we could fill that knowledge gap – and fill it well – so we started developing our first courses to rave reviews.

Since then, we’ve made it our mission to build more and more courses in response to our clients’ most pressing problems. We take those problems and turn them into meaningful opportunities by equipping delegates with a powerful mix of theory and frontline experience.
